outreach program), Piedmont Park, Atlanta, GA

Saturday, October 19 (all girls), Helen, GA

The Becca Sue Klein All Kids Fish is an annual program that strives to ignite a passion for fly fishing and conservation in the rising generation of youth. Participants have the opportunity to explore the pristine headwaters region of the Chattahoochee River or the vibrant heart of Atlanta at Piedmont Park. During these day-long, action-packed retreats, anglers aged 10-18 experience a comprehensive curriculum including the art of assembling and casting a fly rod, mastering essential knots, understanding proper gear usage, and acquiring skills for safe fish handling and conservation. Additionally, they gain a deep appreciation for the significance of a healthy watershed in sustaining life.

These events succeed with the support of partner groups and a team of dedicated volunteers. Notable contributors include The Orvis Company, Unicoi Outfitters, and Piedmont Park Conservancy. We are also proud to collaborate with international partner United Women on the Fly, and nonprofit organizations such as La Amistad, Center for Pan Asian Community Services, Paddle 4 Tomorrow, iFishiBelong, and many others. By joining forces, we are able to make a profound impact on the lives of young people and students from historically underrepresented communities.
